"Stop Signs" To Be Erected at School

The council on Monday night agreed to a motion by Councilman Burge that the commissioner of streets be instructed to purchase and erect "stop signs" in front of Sunset School on San Carlos, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth streets.

A request in a letter to the council by Sunset trustees, and a verbal plea by board chairman G. E. Hanke that a uniformed policeman be placed at the school five times daily, met with less success, though it received careful consideration.

Chief of Police Robert Norton arose to say that it would be impossible at times to spare a man for duty at the school. Commissioner Burge, however, gave his assurance that everything possible would be done to have a policeman on duty.

The request for an officer in front of the school at all times when children are leaving or entering, arose from the necessity of protecting the children from the greatly increased traffic on San Carlos since the opening of the Carmel-San Simeon highway.

ART GALLERY EXHIBIT

The present exhibit at the Carmel Art Gallery is a very fine one, and well worth going to see. Among the exhibitors are John O'Shea, William Irwin, Armin Hansen, Katherine Patton, Marjorie Wintermute, William Ritschel, Leslie Wulff, Julie Stohr, Roberta Balfour, Ada Belle Champlin and Burton Boundey.

PSYCHOLOGY CLASSES TO BEGIN MONDAY

It was announced last week that the psychology classes under the direction of Katherine Nelson, as a part of the adult education program, would be resumed September 13, and would meet each Monday evening at 7:30 in the art room at the Sunset School.

The class was organized last spring and proved of great interest to many people. Mrs. Nelson, who is an advanced student of psychology, has done graduate and research work along this line.

GOOD WEEK END

Up until Monday noon, September 6, there were no accidents, arrests, or fires reported in Carmel, however there were many headaches, and the sale of Alka-Seltzer reached a new high.

Philip Gordon Jr., spent last Saturday in Carmel visiting old friends.

Well Known Local Artist

Well Known Artist

Another of Carmel's well known artists is Charlotte Morgan, whose studio is at Lincoln and Eighth. She procures unusual color effects in both pastel shades and darker colors, and has a great appreciation for natural scenes.

Charlotte Morgan had a full course in the San Francisco School of Design, now called the California School of Fine Arts, where she received honors. There she drew with Arthur Mathews, Amadee Joilin, and Emil Carlson, and studied painting with Jouillin. Other periods in her training were portraiture with Oscar Kunath and sketching with L. P. Latimer. Later she majored in art at the University of California, and received more honors. In 1928 she received an M.A. degree in Art at the same University. Charlotte Morgan has also studied with Armin Hansen, and took art design under Henry Hunt Clark of the Boston Museum School.

Mrs. Passalaique and daughter, Marie Gordon, are ill with streptococci infection. Mrs. Gordon has been taken to the Cottage Hospital in Pacific Grove.

"Shadow of Rockies" Very Successful

"In the Shadow of the Rockies," the play presented at the First Theater in California last week-end, was excellent entertainment. Unlike "Tatters," this play was handled in the serious manner it would have been handled when originally presented, which made it even more amusing than its predecessor.

The aid of George Marion, who supervised the direction, had a great deal to do with the tremendous success, and Lloyd Weer's direction was very well done. The flowery speeches, delivered with elaborate gestures, sent the audience into such gales of laughter that the next lines were indistinguishable. Harry Hedger, who played the part of "Jack Dalton," the villain, deserves many bouquets. He was outstanding. Talented Patricia Lee, who was cast as "Chip, angel of Golden Gulch," made a charming and clever heroine and Grace Robertson in the part of "Henrietta," a coy schoolmarm from Boston, was a great addition to the cast. Gordon Knoles as "Julian Grey," the tenderfoot in love with Chip, lived up to his splendidly done hero in "Tatters." Lloyd Weer, besides directing the play, carried the part of "Judge Thompson" and was screamingly funny as the middle-aged judge. Others in the cast who showed their acting ability were Bob Bratt, Fern Hyde, Ross Miller, Billy Shephard, Everett Gray and Earl Williams.

The after-show was hilarious and brought forth many cries of "More! More!" Betty Carr sang "Tavern in the Town," which took us back to the "Drunkard" days. Edith Anderson's burlesque of an opera star was so enthusiastically received that she was forced to sing an encore. "The Great American Tourist" and "In the Bushes at the Bottom of the Garden" were thoroughly enjoyed, but the piece de resistance was found in the story of the founding of Los Angeles, a song written by Jerome Chance, who was also the accompanist. Another hi-light was the side-splitting performance of the "Hangtown Boys," a take-off on the "Hangtown Girls" of "Tatters." Earl Williams' tap dance "As Seen on the Levee" was clever, and Bob Bratt as Master of Ceremonies was so good that we didn't miss Blackie O'Neil, who had these duties for "Tatters."

Remo Scardigli built and painted the stage sets, and he did a very good job on them.

Those of you who missed "In the Shadow of the Rockies" last week-end will have a chance to see it because it will be repeated this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 9, 10 and 11.

Mr. Sidney Fish and son, Stuyvesant, who have recently returned from a summer spent on Long Island, New York, are now on a hunting trip.

Entered as second-class matter, February 3, 1933, at the postoffice at Carmel, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

The Californian, formerly The Carmel Sun, was adjudicated a Newspaper of General Circulation by the Superior Court of Monterey County, California, October 7, 1936.

Subscription rate $1 per year.

Except for the short but true statement below, the editor has nothing to say this week, so he believes it better not say it.

* * *

As the Californian's readers already know, the circulation contest ended on August 28, and we now have a larger number of paid subscribers than any newspaper in Carmel.

But—and this is an important But—The Californian's circulation still grows. Since the time that the contest closed we have added fifteen more paid subscribers to our list. Subscribers who walked in, unsolicited, and paid their dollar for the privilege of reading The Californian for a year.

We are proud of this, because it proves to us (what we already know, of course) that The Californian is a worthy paper and a growing paper. It proves, further, that The Californian has many friends, and is making many more. Thanks, new subscribers.

NO MONEY AS YET FOR FOREST THEATER

The Park and Playgrounds commission was apparently left out in the cold last Monday night at the meeting of the council when Councilwoman Kellogg said that the Forest Theater needed more thought. This in the face of an increased tax rate.

There is, however, some hope that the commission will get $1525 with which to build a necessary retaining wall around the new tennis courts in Carmel Woods.

Everyone agreed that to fix the Forest Theater would be a nifty idea, but that such did not seem possible. So for another year the venerable old theater will feed termites under a blanket of refuse and pine needles.

The only assurance the council would give the Park and Playground commission was that if the city had lots of money to spare they might contribute some toward keeping up the city's theater.

Here In Hollywood

By ERIC COSTER

"It's the 'breaks' that count here in Hollywood. There's nothing to acting, you just have to be yourself."

It was a young extra speaking. He had been in Hollywood just two weeks, and, like so many others who come to the film capital, he thought he knew all about it, already.

The consummate ease with which the big stars played their parts, the smoothly working corps of make-up men, hairdressers, and electricians who showed them off to their best advantage, all had him confused.

A few more weeks around the sets, and he had changed his mind. He learned the emotional stress and physical discomforts which the stars must undergo, and that sitting in a make-up chair could be the most arduous part of an entire picture.

It took Peter Lorre three hours to have his mask put on for one of the characters he plays in "Look Out, Mr. Moto," which has just been completed at 20th Century Fox.

The role was, the versatile Hungarian actor believes, the most difficult of his career, and the long hours in the make-up chair were one of the chief reasons. The mask changed him from his alert and dapper self to a wizened old man in whose eyes was the wisdom of the ages, and the change in his natural personality had to be as great.

Often, however, it is the things which they have been doing all their lives that put motion picture stars under the greatest strain when they have to perform them before the camera.

Sonja Henie, who won three Olympic titles, and ten world's championships, found skating for the camera presented greater obstacles than learning to emote. Restricted space, and the necessity of stopping always in front of the camera, were the reasons. It is an actual matter of record that she did more skating for scenes in "Thin Ice," than she did for any Olympic title, including the training peroid.

"Thin Ice," is grand entertainment and should be included on the 'must see' list if only for the magnificent skating and skiing scenes and the splendid comedy numbers turned in by Joan Davis, who is well on her way to becoming Hollywood's leading comedienne. Her rendition of 'Olga from the Volga,' brought down the house at a preview here earlier this week.

Loretta Young stared death in the face for minutes in "Love Under Fire," another recent 20th Century-Fox release, when the picture literally began to live up to its name. Miss Young was backed up against a wall and the camera had to pick up the spurts of the bullets as they pinged around her. There was no way in which the scene could be faked, she simply had to trust to the skill of the best marksman the studio could procure. Later, in the same picture, she was showered with glass, when a machine gun raked the windows behind which she was crouching.

Pagliacci's chief claim to fame was the fact that he could laugh when he was in the depths of despondency. Many actors, and actresses assert, however, that it is much more difficult to portray grief when they, personally, feel abnormally happy.

Such was the case with Jane Withers when she had to cry in the opening sequences of her latest picture "45 Fathers," Happy to be back on the set again, she had great difficulty in assuming a despondent mood.

"Gee, Mom," she said to Mrs. Withers, "can't they take this shot some other day? Maybe at the end of the picture I won't be feeling so happy."

But she proved herself a real little Pagliacci in reverse, just the same.

INCREASED TAX RATE

The city council Monday night fixed the city tax rate for 1937 at $1.16 on $100 assessed valuation, a raise of 5 cents over the 1936 rate. This amounts to a 7 cent raise as far as municipal receipts are concerned because 2 cents due last year for sand dunes bonds will not be payable in 1937.

The increased assessed valuation this year of about $86,000 over last year, plus the increased income to the city through the increased tax rate should bring the city about $34,000 with which to run municipal affairs. Besides this amount there will be available some $7000 to be spent for redemption and interest of fire house and fire engine bonds.

The general fund of 90 cents this year as opposed to last year's 83 cents will bring the city $33,600, $3500 more than last year.

It appears, however, that in spite of the increased tax rate and fewer great expenses, the city will not have enough to rebuild the Forest theater.

ALICE LONGWORTH HERE

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, her daughter, Paulina, and Miss Waldron, of Washington, D. C., left the Peninsula Friday morning after being the guests of Mrs. Martha Ewing Newcome for one week. Mrs. Longworth and her party have been in the West for some time. They spent a month at a friend's ranch in Wyoming, followed by a short sojourne in Santa Barbara, during which Mrs. Longworth and her daughter rode in the Santa Barbara fiesta.

Word has been received from Bertha Zerega that she is stopping off in Yellowstone Park en route to New Jersey.

ADULT GERMAN CLASS

On Monday Sept. the 13th the German Class of the Monterey Adult School will begin its second year with Mrs. Otto Koehler, Carmel, again as instructor.

The first year was a thorough success with the interest keeping up until the last and those who were not away on vacation met even during the summer months privately once a week.

Mrs. Koehler is a native of Germany with a thorough academic education and teaching experience in the Berlitz School of Languages. She has in all the past years of private adult teaching here in America successfully combined this method with her own, of which the basis is purely conversational. Every evening ends with the reading of a poem and the singing of a song to the class, which finally joins in one of the best known folk songs.

The German Class will be held for beginners as well as for advanced students on Mondays and Thursdays 7:15 p.m., in Room 34 West Wing of the Monterey Union High School.

Miss Roe Marie Arlen entertained at a dinner Saturday night preceeding the sport dance held at the Mission Ranch Club. Those who attended were Sue Chapman, Babette DeMoe, Lydge Cady, Adlington Cady, Spencer Kern and Warren Johnston.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Lanz of Palo Alto, are spending the month of September in Carmel.

Scouts to Hold Huge Camporal

For the first time in its history, Region 12, Boy Scouts of America, will conduct a wilderness type of camporal over the week end, October 9-10, when northern California Scout councils will send hundreds of their best patrols to Pfeiffer's Redwood State Park, Big Sur, Monterey County, for their annual northern California regional camporal, it was stated today by H. S. Crossman, local member of the lay camporal committee. Previously, these camporals, which is an exposition of patrol camping, have been held in the center of a large city.

Preliminary estimates are that approximately 300 patrols, composed of from two to three thousand Scouts will participate in the gigantic affair, A. R. Gruenink, general chairman of the camporal committee, reported at a meeting held at Salinas last week. Mr. Groenink invited the public to witness this huge spectacle of Scouting, which will include the participation of 36 patrols from the local Monterey Bay Area Council.

Both local and regional committees were designated at the meeting. General chairman of the executive committee, A. R. Groenink, also in charge of registrations, literature, finance, arrangements; sub-committee chairmen, Scout executives H. J. Bemiss, Oakland, emblems; D. E. McKinley, San Jose, certificates; J. F. Reid, San Mateo, exhibits; R. Frank, Stockton, program; J. T. McFadden, San Francisco, Catholic services; Oscar Kirkham, Salt Lake City, protestant services; W. T. Lindsay, Oakland, campfire, opening and closing ceremonies; Roger Bales, San Jose, hikes; E. C. Blair, Sacramento swimming.

The Monterey Bay Area Council's lay committee is composed of F. E. Grantham, Pacific Grove, chairman, Claude Estill, Monterey, registrations, Francis Petersen, Chualar maintenance, Sheldon Gilmer, Pacific Grove, medical, Albert M. Davis, Salinas, police, Joseph Amrein, Watsonville, guides and program, H. S. Crossman, Carmel and J. Kraft, Salinas, messengers, Ray Sherman, Salinas, checkout.

Four service troops of local Scouts will be headed by Fred Flodberg, Watsonville, police; Stanley Smith, Santa Cruz, guides, James Sugioka, Hollister, messengers, Ira Deakin, Pacific Grove, maintenance.

The camporal executive committee consists of Scout executives A. R. Groenink Alameda, chairman, Homer Bemiss, Oakland, Hazen Shower, Sacramento, Victor Lindblad, Berkeley, Ralph Worsley, San Rafael, D. E. McKinlay, San Jose, Alfred Young, Salinas; and the program committee is made up of field executives Robert H. Frank, Stockton, chairman, W. T. Lindsay, Oakland, J. T. McFadden, San Francisco, J. E. Nehre, Berkeley, Roger L. Bales, San Jose, E. W. Blair, Sacramento, Allan F. Locke, Vallejo, F. Franklin Reid, San Mateo.

EX-GOVERNOR ILL HERE

Walter F. Frear, ex-governor of the Hawaiian Islands, is reported to be improving rapidly at the Peninsula Community Hospital from an attack of pneumonia. While on a motor tour of California, after being in the United States only two weeks, he was victim of the attack, and for some days was in such a weakened condition that oxygen was administered to him.

One of his daughters, Mrs. Virginia Frear Wild, arrived at his bedside last Thursday afternoon, after making the trip from Honolulu to San Francisco on board the Philippine clipper in 22 hours.

Frear became chief justice for the Republic of Hawaii in 1900, and remained in that capacity until he became governor in 1907, a post which he held for seven years. Since that time he has served many important posts.

Recall Situation Appears Dubious

The situation regarding recall movement, in spite of many statements and counter statements on the part of accused councilmen, citizens and press, remains approximately as it was last week.

Councilman Thoburn attempted to apologize for his three brothers, Smith, Burge and Rowntree, but the three brothers who are sought to be recalled, said or intimated that they weren't a darn bit sorry for anything and that it didn't sound like it in their statement published last week—did it? No.

Although sufficient time has elapsed, no petitions have been circulated and it is the belief of some that it is very possible that they never will. In other words, it is a very difficult thing to keep enough citizens mad enough over a period of six or eight months to assure a recall.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Morsman and son, of Phoenix, Arizona, who have been spending the summer in Carmel at the Normandy Apartments, left early this week to return to Arizona.

Dancer

Mrs. Miriam Watson will instruct the classes in dancing Monday evenings at the Sunset School, starting September 13, as a part of the adult education program.

TO HOLD SHOP CLASS

The Sunset School Evening Shop Class will open Monday September 13—7 to 9 p.m. Pottery and Woodwork are the two courses given.

Pottery includes the preparation of clay, hand forming, coil building, casting and wheel forming or jiggering, glazing and firing. This takes in the first elementary working of clay to the mature building of forms. Individual requirements are the basis of procedure.

Woodwork is a flexible course based upon individual propects according to needs, from a bread board to a carved sign for the house or simple furniture.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Alexander, who have been visiting in Sacramento for the past month have returned to their home here.

To Conduct Adult Dancing Classes

On Monday nights in the Sunset School gymnasium Mrs. Miriam Watson will instruct a class in rhythmical exercises as a part of the adult educational program. Enrollment for the course will be held on September 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium and is open to all women on the Peninsula.

The class will be a progressive course of 10 lessons. There will be tonic and objective exercises for relaxation, posture, grace, reducing, body building, rhythm and balance. Mrs. Watson will also have a class at the Del Monte School in recreation and classes in ballroom dancing will be given. This class will be held on Wednesday nights, starting September 15, and is open to anyone interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson have just returned from a tour of the country, and while in the East visited Bennington College in Vermont. Bennington was begun as an experiment four years ago, and is now the country's foremost dance school. The function of the school is to provide integrated study of the dance under the leaders of the art in America. Their basic program represents a thorough survey of the modern dance. Although Mrs. Watson did not have time to take a course at Bennington, she saw a program given by Doris Humphreys and Charles Weideman which she reports was excellent.

Another interesting part of her summer was studying at the Arthur Murray Studio in New York. Arthur Murray has a building of seven floors with twenty studios on each floor. Mrs. Watson found the dancing in the East a great deal less expressive and a great deal more expensive than Western dancing.

She also enrolled in the classes of Erica Stolzberg, a teacher of creative dancing based on the Kurt Jooss system which combines modern and ballet dancing, and is the theory of correct movement. A few years ago ballet was discarded, but the Jooss system now combines modern and ballet dancing.

Mrs. Watson is also giving private work in creative dance and dance compositions, and ballroom rhythms including waltz, fox trot and tango. For further information phone her at Carmel 753-R.

RED CROSS MEETING

Details of the Annual November Roll Call of the Carmel chapter, American Red Cross, were discussed at the monthly meeting of the executive committee—last Wednesday afternoon. The chairman was instructed to organize and pledge the services of volunteer campaign workers.

Col. T. B. Taylor, chairman of the ambulance committee, read a report on the first month of ambulance service. The cost of maintaining the ambulance has been undertaken by the chapter and a fund set aside for that purpose.

It is expected that a first aid instructor will be sent here shortly from Red Cross headquarters to conduct elementary as well as advanced classes in first aid.

Russell Eaton, a former Carmelite, who has a home here, was in town over the week-end.

ADMISSION DAY

Tomorrow California celebrates its eighty-seventh anniversary of admission into the Union. Monterey as first capital of California, has even greater cause for celebration than many other towns.

A small seaport in 1850, it has since grown into a beautiful and interesting spot that is sought out by travelers from all over the world. Carmel hadn't been heard of at that time, and it is now known the world over.

The old adage of "Build a better mouse trap" is true in the case of the Monterey Peninsula. The world has already "beat a path to our door."

MISSION FLAGS STOLEN

Local police are investigating the theft of three large flags from the Carmel Mission sometime Sunday night, August 29, following the day's observance of the 153rd anniversary of the death of Father Junipero Serra. The flags were the American, the Papal and the Royal Spanish, and the value is difficult to place. The Spanish flag belonged to Miss Maria Antonia Field, the American was a donation to the Mission, and the Papal flag was the property of the Mission.

Here from Berkeley for the week end were Sue Brownell and Betty Reynolds, Carmelites who are now attending the University of California.

NEW CITY PARK

The council Monday evening adopted a resolution making Carmel legal owner of five lots formerly owned by Caroline Benson Unander. These lots will be Forest Hill Park.

The city promised to remit delinquent taxes on lots one, three, five, seven and nine, Block 12, some months ago and Mrs. Unander agreed to give the land to the city.

The city paid $450 for a second block of wooded canyon lots which will be preserved as a rustic woodland park. The new park is bounded by Junipero, First and Mission.

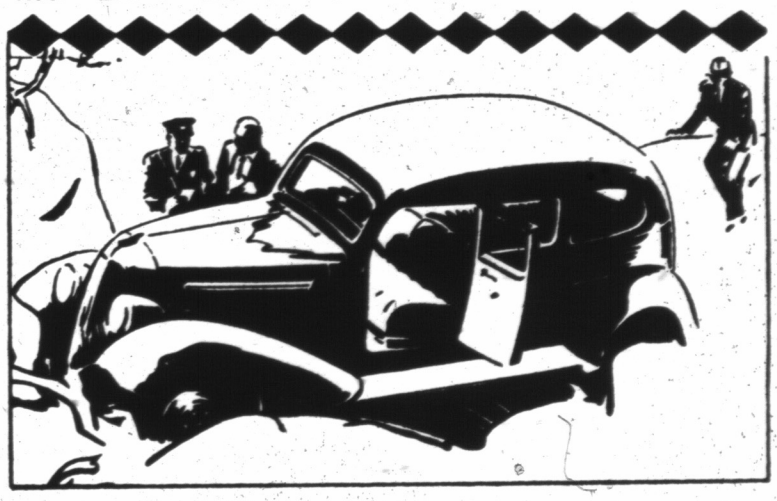
WE KNOW HOW DANGEROUS A BLOW-OUT CAN BE!



. . . that's why we swear by this life-saving Goodrich Tire

ARE your tires safe? Do you realize what havoc one blow-out can play with life, limb, car and pocketbook? Decide now whether it isn't wiser to come in today and let us put a set of Goodrich Safety Silvertowns on your car. No other tire in the world can give you the priceless protection of the Life-Saver Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist the terrific blowout-causing heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds. You're protected because rubber and fabric don't separate. Dangerous heat blisters don't get a start inside the tire. And when you prevent the blister, you prevent the high-speed blow-out.

And—this is remarkable—in spite of the fact that Goodrich spent thousands of dollars to develop this life-saving invention, the Silvertown does not cost you a cent more. In fact, Silvertowns cost even less than other super-quality tires! Keep danger a stranger. See us about a set of Golden Ply Silvertowns today.

Board of Women's League Meets

The executive board of the Monterey County League of Women Voters met last Wednesday at the home of their president, Miss Lydia G. Weld. Appointment of Mrs. Howard V. Walters as membership chairman for the league was announced, and tentative plans for a new county government chart, with figures of this year's budget were discussed. It was voted to keep the league dues at $2 a year.

Present at the board meeting were Mrs. Carl Voss, Mrs. Mast Wolfson, Mrs. Guy Curtis, Dorothy Green Chapman, Miss Emma Abel, Miss Ruth Huntington, Miss Orre Haseltine, Mrs. Ritter Holman, Miss Clara Hinds, Miss Lorena Ray, Mrs. L. O. Kellogg, Mrs. Howard E. Clark and Miss Weld.

The Monterey County League will have its first meeting of the fall on Wednesday, September 22. It will be a 65c luncheon at Pine Inn and the speaker will be Miss Beatrice Goldman, of the Hollister Junior College faculty.

A northern conference will be held Wednesday, September 15 at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco, the last conference before the state convention in October. OWNER OF PRESS IN FOREST LEAVE CARMEL

Plans for the future of the Press in the Forest have not yet been made public, although Mr. and Mrs. Irving Gunderson (Gladys Steele) are leaving Carmel for Berkeley this week, after living here and running the Press for the last year and a half.

Gunderson will continue with the same type of work in Berkeley it is announced. The Village will miss Gladys Steele, who has contributed much to the musical welfare of the community during her stay here.

The beautiful and unusual Christmas cards of Irving Gunderson have attracted much attention here. He has been specializing in unusual hand-lettered cards and book places.
